

Dr. Danielle Rice
Program Director of the Museum Leadership MS Program
Drexel's Westphal College of Media Arts & Design

Dr. Danielle Rice has more than 30 years of experience in designing and implementing innovative new programs to communicate art to the public. She has served as Executive Director of the Delaware Art Museum, and Curator of Education and Associate Director of Programs at The Philadelphia Museum. She has developed new interpretive strategies for permanent collections throughout her career, engineering large-scale celebrations, scholarly symposia, community outreach projects and technology installations in museum settings. She has authored and produced interactive computer programs, kiosks and websites, random access audio tours and distance education through videoconferencing.